SATI is a non-profit that aims to improve healthcare and education for at-risk and underserved children and youth in Thailand.

A high-angle, dimly lit photograph of a group of young people, mostly of Asian descent, at what appears to be a skate park or a paved outdoor area at night. Several individuals are holding skateboards. The scene is dark, with some light reflecting off the pavement and the subjects' clothing. The overall mood is quiet and contemplative. The text is overlaid in the center in a clean, white, sans-serif font.

A black and white photograph of three young children sitting on a set of stone stairs. All three children are wearing white face masks. The child on the left is sitting upright with arms crossed, wearing a patterned t-shirt and shorts. The child in the middle is also sitting upright with arms crossed, wearing a similar patterned t-shirt and shorts. The child on the right is sitting with legs spread wide, wearing a patterned t-shirt and shorts. The text "Measurable Results & Impact" is overlaid in large white font across the center of the image.
